

In addition to treating Health Center patients, Melissa Paulissen, M.D., is our public health officer for Tillamook County.

She may not always wear scrubs, but she is always working, whether it is with her health care team or behind the scenes, on everything from communicable diseases, environmental health, immunizations to vital statistics. She and her team are true public health heroes!

Dr. Paulissen went to medical school at OHSU and did her residency in Family Medicine with Providence Health & Services. She is board-certified by the American Board of Family Medicine.

Please join us in sharing appreciation for our health care providers, who are working together to protect the health of our communities.
